

From: M Carling
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/23/02 10:37am
Subject: Microsoft Settlement

The proposed settlement is inadequate because because every provision contains gaping loopholes. I will choose just one to illustrate:

The requirement to publish APIs is of little value without a similar requirement to publish document formats. Document formats are the more important interoperability interface. Additionally, exclusion of "security" APIs renders the requirement completely valueless. Publishing well-engineered security APIs in no way compromises their security.

M Carling
CEO, Codeworks